CHINA IN THE SHADOW OF THE SOVIET

BOLSHEVISTS IN CONTROL HAS CHINA BY THE THROAT

Alarming Situation Develops For the Safety of Americans and English At Kuling As Labor Agitators Gain Control—Chinese Officers of Marahal Chaun-Fang Say They Cannot Promise Safety At Foochow—U. S. Dispatches Gunboats To the Scene of the Trouble—Commanders Have Open Orders To Act In Case of Danger.

The American destroyers Truxton and Pope have been ordered to proceed up the Yangtze river to Hankow 585 miles inland, to aid other foreign warships in protecting foreigners, as a result of Chinese labor union threats of a general anti-foreign strike.

Hundreds of miles away, in Fukien Province, Chinese officers of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang have professed their inability to guarantee safety to foreigners at Foochow, which is identified by the advance of the victorious Cantonese forces against Sun's troops.

In still another section 400 Americans and British, many of them invalids, feared that their provisions would be cut off at Kuling which is a mountain resort near Klukiang on the Yangtze river in Kiangsi Province and they will be endangered by anti-foreign agitation.

The situation at Hankow, where the bolshevik Cantonese government headquarters have been established, is regarded as serious.

Since the Cantonese drove out the northern troops in September they have been busy in organizing all classes of labor into unions in a manner similar to the industrial soviets of Russia.

Anti-foreign feeling has been engendered and with the progressive stoppage of employment, due to labor demands, has come the threat of a general anti-foreign strike set for December 4. There are British, French and Japanese concession districts at Hankow.

British naval contingents have been landed at the British concession lying along the Yangtze river and British volunteers have been called out to reinforce the concession police who are endeavoring to enforce new regulations which prohibit armed groups of Chinese from passing thru the concession district without special permission. Many of these armed bodies have marched thru foreign areas recently.

Some anxiety is felt also for foreign lives in the coast province of Fukien. There the Cantonese forces are beating back the troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, whose power as overlord of eastern China has been considerably diminished. Only one brigade stands between the victorious army and Foochow, capital of the province, all other Fukienese troops having withdrawn into the city.

Civil Governor Sah Chen-Ping notified foreign consuls Sunday that the local authorities were unable to guarantee the safety of foreign lives and property. For several days reports that he felt able to furnish protection, the consuls telegraphed their respective governments requesting that protection be arranged, as they believed that Sah meant to evacuate Foochow.

The British flotilla leader Keppel left Shanghai for Hankow Tuesday morning. American destroyers Peary and John D. Ford left for that place Tuesday. For several days reports of widespread demonstrations against foreigners.

The Belgian consul general at Hankow, China, reports that the situation there, arising out of the anti-foreign movement, is "extremely grave." Together with the Belgian minister in Peking, he is taking measures to protect Belgian interests.

Word was received that a Belgian missionary named Peeter, who recently was imprisoned in western Mongolia, has been released.

The serious Chinese situation was considered at a special cabinet meeting Tuesday night in London in preparation for a full statement which Sir Tusten Chamberlain, foreign secretary, will make in the house of commons.

C. E. RANEY PROMOTED.

Effective this date, Charles E. Raney, superintendent of the Mid-West Box mills, has been appointed general superintendent of the mills of the Container Corporation as well as the Mid-West Box.

The appointment which was not a surprise to Mr. Raney, places him in charge of the largest tonnage of paper mills plants in the world. Mr. Raney has been in the paper game all his life and a better posted man in his line would be hard to find. For the present he will make this city his headquarters.

A RARE SOCIAL TREAT.

An exceptionally rare occasion was when the writer, John S. Neff and his wife partook of a splendid dinner cooked and served by Mrs. John S. Neff Sr., of West Union street, who is in her ninety-first year. All was of her own making, including canned fruits and cake baked by herself, good enough for Queen Marie or any other queen. We are hoping Mrs. Neff will retain her ability to prepare many more such meals.

Ephraim Hobbs Minear, well known Civil war veteran of Andersonville, passed away at a Sandusky hospital Tuesday, following an illness of two years' duration due to the infirmities of old age. Mr. Minear was born in Ross county November 25, 1840, the son of William and Ida M. Madden Minear, and was a retired carpenter. He was a member of the Spring Bank M. E. church and had served during the Civil war as a fifer in the 89th regiment. He belonged to the G. A. R., at Chillicothe and the Byron Lutz post at Yellowbud.

CENTENNIAL FINANCIALLY WAS FAILURE

Celebration of a Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary Has Deficit of $5,200,000.

Celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth birthday anniversary of the nation was ended officially Tuesday with a deficit of more than $5,200,000 for the Sesqui-Centennial exposition.

The grounds and a few buildings will be kept open until January 1, for technical reasons associated with liquidation of back bills, but officially all activities were ceased Tuesday night with the singing of the national anthem and a commemorative dance in the big auditorium.

Plans to reopen the Sesqui next year were abandoned. The directors opposed such a plan, chiefly because of financial reasons. The plans contemplated an outlay of $6,500,000, with federal, state and city governments contributing, with exhibitors, concessionaires, individuals and corporations.

The action of the directors was taken over the protest of Albert M. Greenfield, who insisted the funds could be obtained and that the fair would be a great success next year.

The exposition was opened May 31. It covers an area of 1,000 acres, with buildings ranging from those of magnificent Oriental design to the lowly wigwam of the American Indian. Five structures covering many acres housed most of the exhibits, which were drawn from every part of the world.

The exposition has been referred to as one of the greatest exposition "failures" the country has ever known and also the greatest success.

It cost the city of Philadelphia approximately $17,000,000, exclusive of $3,000,000 subscribed by business concerns and individuals.

Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick says there has been no failure. History, he says, will record the exposition as the greatest ever held up to 1926, and will take no notice of the financial losses.

The mayor believes Americans are "fed up" on expositions and that this probably will be the last on such a large scale. During the six months of the fair approximately 4,500,000 paid admissions were taken in at the gates, less than one-third as many as the exposition officials had expected.

Carl N. Crispin, director of the Ohio Sesqui-centennial commission, and E. L. Austin, director in chief of the exposition, are having a war of words over the cost of hauling material from the exposition grounds to railroad cars.

Crispin Tuesday declared exhibitors and custodians of state buildings could not obtain permits to remove exhibits and building material at the close of the sesqui unless they employed trucks of the transportation division at exorbitant prices. He said the charges for removing Ohio materials are $350 higher than that charged by private concerns.

Austin replied that Crispin's charges are "pure rot." As a safeguard to exhibitors and to facilitate removal of exhibits and building material it was decided months ago to make a contract for such work, Austin said.

HUNTERS TRAPPED IN MICHIGAN STORM

Two Lake Freighters Aground and Steamer Cottonwood on the Rocks.

Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 30.—The upper Michigan peninsula district continued today in the grip of a blizzard which has trapped more than 500 hunters in the storm area as well as tied up shipping along the St. Marys river and the Lake Superior district.
So severe has been the blow to navigation that marine men forecast a premature end to the lakes shipping season.
The freighters George H. Ingalls and the William K. Fields went aground—the Ingalls off Point Aux Pines, Ont., and the Field off Pipe Island, Mich. Tugs and lighters worked frantically to free the ships lest they be imprisoned for the winter by ice formations.
The steamer Cottonwood went on the rocks at Coppen Line point. The steamer Herman Hettler, which went aground at Grand Island, has broken up.

Pointing out that many criminals are inordinately proud of their illegal accomplishments, George S. Dougherty, former Deputy Police Commissioner and Chief of Detectives of New York City, tells of one crook who was so proud of his exploits that his exclusion from a book of crime hurt him deeply. Writing in this week's Liberty, Dougherty explains that:
After Thomas F. Byrnes retired as inspector from the New York Police Department, he published a book—Criminals of America. It was profusely illustrated with photographs of these bad boys. One day, after the book began to have wide circulation, I met Dutch Alonzo. Obviously he was humiliated. His reputation as a thief did not suffer in comparison with any crook in America; and yet—"Chief," he said to me, "that book of Byrnes' is rotten. I always thought Byrnes knew his business. Did you see my mug in it. No, you didn't, because it ain't there. Listen, Chief, Byrnes must have lost his mind. Did you find my record in it or anything about me? No. The book's useless."
I tried to be sympathetic," the writer says. "Dutch cheered up a little as we were parting. 'Maybe he did it only to be fresh,' he said. 'Or may be sore on me. I can't think of anything I ever did to him to get him sore like that.'"

THANK YOU, MRS. HARTWELL.

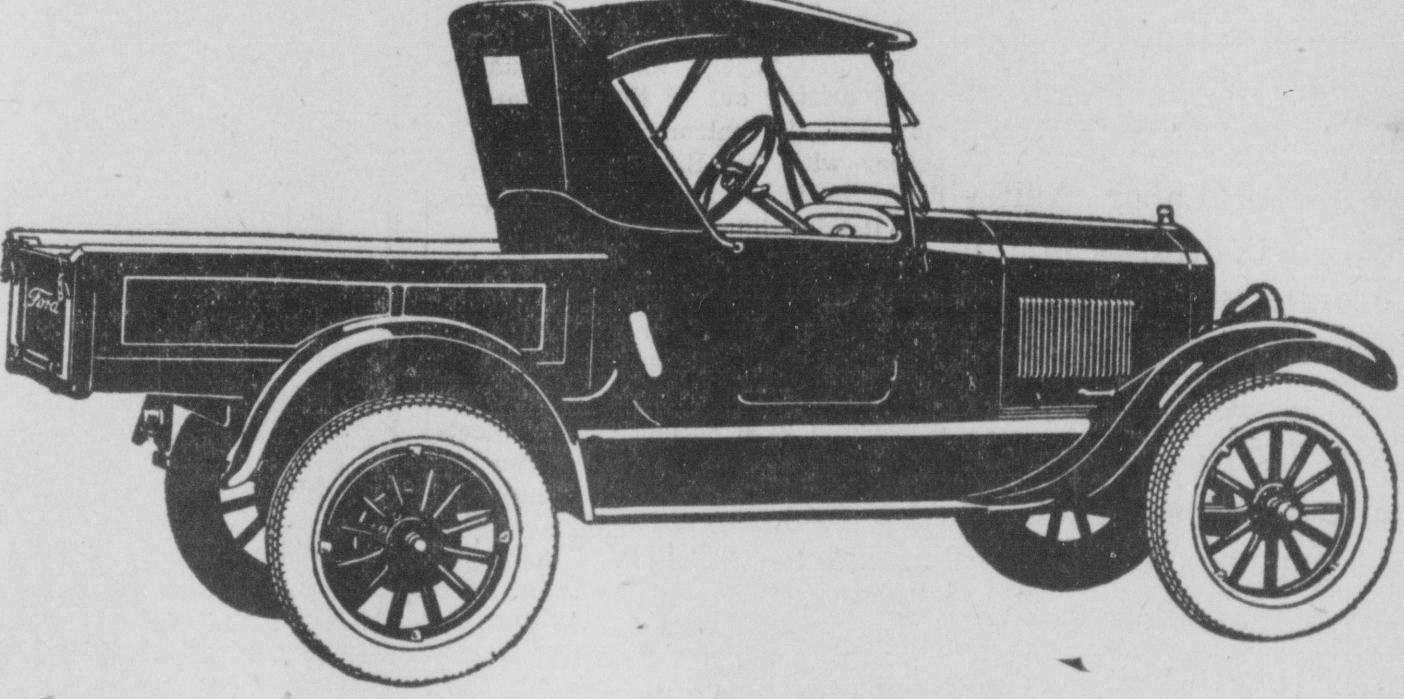

Many of you, last week, perhaps read an announcement in The Eccentric to the effect that Mrs. Arthur W. Hartwell, of Brown street, had resigned as a member of the local Community House administrative board. Perhaps a few of you, knowing Mrs. Hartwell, thoughtfully pondered the news item, at the same time expressing an inward vote of thanks for her services to this community; many of you merely passed up the item (because you may not know the lady) and thought no more about it.
For a good many years Mrs. Hartwell has taken the time from her household duties to serve Birmingham in one way or another, with little, if any, monetary remuneration for her efforts. She has been a member of the school board, library board, Community House board, as well as many other unofficial, but nevertheless important, committees of this community. The Eccentric, in behalf of Birmingham and environs, wishes publicly to thank Mrs. Hartwell for her untiring labors to assist in the uplift and growth of this part of the earth's surface. Undoubtedly, Mrs. Hartwell's greatest compensation is not in the public's applause and appreciation of her efforts, but rather in the "still, small voice that speaks to the conscience and the heart, prompting us to a wider and wiser humanity." The quotation is from Lowell, Birmingham (Mich.) Eccentric.

Mrs. Hartwell was formerly Miss Alice Moodie, of Columbus, a cousin of Mrs. Charles E. Groce, who taught in old Everts High school, Circleville, when Dr. Blenn R. Bales, owner of Triangle Farms, was a senior.

Owners of the pigeons become as attached to them as does a dog or horse fancier to his particular pet. Homing pigeons have great endurance powers, being able to fly 12 to 15 hours without rest. A homing pigeon weighing 16 ounces will consume only an ounce of food a day.

Two public men in Washington were one day talking of the traits of a certain member of congress, who has a way of permitting himself to get "all het up" over trifles and who generally makes a great to do with respect to the accomplishment of small things.

PIGS NEED SUNLIGHT

Those Fed In the Open Show More Rapid Growth and Cost Less to Fatten.

That direct sunlight and green feed have a beneficial effect upon growing pigs was demonstrated by an experiment conducted last winter at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

One group of pigs was confined indoors and fed corn, tankage, linseed oilmeal, salt and limestone. The pigs of this group gained 1.02 pounds daily a head and ate 406 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds of gain.

A similar group of pigs were fed the same ration and kept under the same conditions except that they were given access to sunlight in a small outside pen having a board floor. The pigs in this group gained 1.20 pounds daily a head and ate 385 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds of gain. Exposure to sunlight caused more rapid growth and brought about a saving of 34 cents in the feed cost for each 100 pounds of gain.

Sunlight to be of greatest value, it was explained by W. L. Robison in charge of the experiment, must not shine through glass but directly on the animals. The ultra-violet rays which aid in the assimilation of minerals and in bone formation are filtered out by window glass.

In the experiment the difference in favor of the pigs having access to the outside pen became more marked as spring advanced and there was a greater amount of sunshine.

Green feed and leguminous hays as well as direct sunlight or cod-liver oil contain the anti-rachitic factor and aid in the utilization of the minerals in the ration. Feeding bright green alfalfa hay or clover hay in a rack, or including 4 to 5 pounds of alfalfa meal or chopped clover or alfalfa in each 100 pounds of feed during the winter months is an excellent practice. Mr. Robison also suggests that whenever the sun is shining, even in the middle of winter, pigs should be permitted to run outside.

A "WISE GUY" (?)

Columbus, Nov. 30.—When Harold Heron, of Cuba, Detroit, and other points of the compass, again visits Columbus, (If he does) he will make sure to whom he is delivering liquor. For Harold made the fatal error of delivering three and one-half cases of bonded whisky to a young gentleman who gave his address as "403 Columbian building."

During the morning, Harold had a conversation with the young man, who appeared very anxious to get some "real good liquor," and Heron, who is rooming at 228 Garfield avenue, alleged he could supply the want, and could deliver on short notice.

The rear of the Columbian building was the spot agreed upon for the delivery, but the young gentleman who ordered the stuff declared it would be a favor if Harold could help him upstairs with it, and the settlement could be made in the office.

Being an agreeable chap, Heron helped carry the stuff to the elevator, and through the corridors to the room designated, and then announced the cargo was worth $280, or $80 a case.

About that time, the young man who ordered the liquor, who turned out to be Charles W. Hurlburt, federal prohibition agent, and another man in the office, who was Thomas B. Williams, enforcement deputy under Administrator Walker, flashed their badges, and Heron realized he had made a delivery to the federal prohibition officers for the Ohio-Michigan district. Charges of conspiracy will be filed against him, Williams said.

HOT DOG IN ENGLAND

My word! England has yielded to the "hot dog" habit. It would hardly be more amazing to hear that English aristocrats were chewing gum.

The Englishmen held out nobly, but they had to succumb sooner or later, and their surrender came with the advent of cold weather at sporting events. So great is the new demand for this historic Coney Island delicacy that a big company has been organized in London, called "Hot Dog Limited," with a charter authorizing it to "manufacture and deal in a comestible known in the United States of America under the name of 'hot dog.'"

That name has been harder for the English people to swallow than the article itself. For a long time they insisted on referring to it as "a sausage and a roll, with mustard." But finally English common sense triumphed and the shorter and uglier term was accepted.

Nobody need grudge the "comestible" to England. In a way, it is only repaying a national debt contracted long ago, when the Earl of Sandwich invented the basic viand which bears his name, and America borrowed it.

He who keeps his oath of office must leave behind all hope of reward.

Scholars Baffled by Inscriptions on Stone

The Nestorian stone has attracted much attention from western scholars. One American scientist has pronounced it a forgery, but later investigations seem to have established its authenticity and show that its inscription presents a truthful account of the first Christian mission to China.

The stone was found by workmen in the year 1625. The inscription consists of three columns of Chinese characters, with a few Syriac paragraphs, the latter language being unknown in China. It is a long exposition of the Christian doctrines of the period.

In China antiquarians have long held the stone in great veneration. The style is brief to a degree, but not easily understood. It has been contended that, were fifty Chinese students versed in the various dialects of the country to be employed in its translation, each would offer a different interpretation of some part of the inscription.

PUMPKIN PIE IS THEME OF EDITOR'S SONG

Other lands may boast their favorite foods and praise the peculiar virtues of their viands, but as for us, give us pumpkin pie. Not famed in song and all unknown to lordly appetites perhaps, it is the peer of all ragouts, French pastry, curried rice or sherris sack, or even that far-famed lion of English beef that James the First in playful mood gave the accolade with kindly sword and dubbed Sir Lion of Beef. Had the pumpkin pie lived in those beknighted days it would have been proclaimed The Prince of Pastries.

There it sits upon the American sideboard, refulgent as the sun; yellow as molten gold; fragrant as the breezes that blow from the spicy coasts of Araby; delectable as the ancient ambrosia upon which Grecian gods sated their celestial appetites; luscious with the sweetness of the summer suns, all concentrated in one delectable dish as satisfying as love's first kiss; a renewal of youth; a pledge of health; a gastronomic joy—a Pumpkin Pie.—Portsmouth Times.

Gave Name to Ray

The X-ray (Roentgen ray) was discovered in 1895 at Wurzburg, Germany, by W. K. Roentgen. He was using apparatus comprising Crookes tubes. While thus engaged he perceived certain peculiar manifestations never before observed. This led to investigation, with the outcome that the discovery was made that the production of X-rays is incident to the use of such tubes. Knowledge thereof spread very quickly throughout Europe and the United States. The utilization of the rays for curative purposes soon came about, and since that time there has been refinement and improvement in the apparatus by Coolidge and many others.

Branding of Jilts Taboo by Corean Court Decree

Tokyo.—The quaint Corean custom of carving a design on the neck of a girl who has jilted her sweetheart was frowned upon by the Tokyo Appeal court when it sentenced Lyu Tetsufuku to 18 months' imprisonment for murderous assault on a girl in Mofu, Corea.

Lyu's defense was that he had been engaged to the girl, but that she had found a handsomer man and had left him. He produced witnesses to prove that ancient Corean customs permitted him, under the circumstances, to shave off her eyebrows or to cut a slice of skin from her neck.

The court ruled, however, that the carving custom had no standing in law and Lyu was committed to prison.

There's no particular heroism in doing the thing you have to do.

Superstitions Lasting

The black cat superstition is a direct descendant of the days when the cat was worshipped in Egypt. Some years ago the swastika swept the country as a lucky emblem. As a basic form of design, it was known in the Orient thousands of years ago, and recent excavations have disclosed that it was similarly used as a religious ornament by the Mayas and Incas of Central and South America hundreds of years before Columbus discovered America. As a lucky emblem it was based on oriental legends, where it has played a part in religious worship for centuries.

Clever Judge

Not all Englishmen drop the "hs." To many of them such clipped words as "lot" and "ouse" sound as unpleasant as they do to us. The story is told that on one occasion a case having to do with a horse was being tried before Judge Darling, and the plaintiff's attorney kept referring to the animal as a "orse."

Justice Darling stood it as long as he could, then he said: "Mr. X, was the animal a large horse or a little one?"

"Oh, a little one, my lord."

"Then, Mr. X, for the remainder of the case let us call it a pony."

Egotism—the other fellow's opinion of himself.

Odd Indian Custom

Among the Arhuaco Indians, a tribe inhabiting one of the mountain fastnesses in Colombia, it is the custom for a man to reside in a house by himself after marriage, while his wife lives alone in a neighboring house; they eat together outside the door of the wife's house.

WIFE HELD

On Charges of Murdering Husband's Paramour.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 30.—(UP.)—Mrs. Blanche Richmond, 33, today is held in jail without bond, awaiting preliminary hearing December 14, on charges of first degree murder. Charges were filed against her yesterday when she told officers she killed Miss Carrie Sparks, 17, after she had pleaded with her husband to quit living with the girl and to come back home.

Mrs. Richmond, a frail mother of two children, who lives in St. Joseph, Mo., entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned and maintained she was justified in her act.

"I would do it again," she said. Just what her plans for defense were were not known today, but it was indicated by her not guilty plea to the murder charge that she will stand trial when bound over to the circuit court next month.

The killing of Miss Sparks occurred Saturday when Mrs. Richmond came here from St. Joseph to take her husband home with her and he refused to go.

Gold and Silver Coins

The United States gold dollar contains 25.8 troy grains. A troy pound contains 5,760 troy grains, but the more familiar avoirdupois pound contains 7,000 troy grains. A million dollars in United States gold coin, therefore, weighs 3,686.4 pounds avoirdupois. The standard silver dollar weighs 412.5 troy grains, and a million dollars in such coin would weigh 56,931 pounds, or nearly 24½ tons.

Sister That Wasn't a Wall Flower

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

A YOUNG man and a young woman in evening dress stood in the shadows of the veranda of the brightly lighted country club.

"You've got to promise before you go in," said the young man rather sharply. "I'm certainly not going to let you carry on the way you did at the Bensons' last week."

"Well, I couldn't help it," protested the girl. "If the men are so foolish as to want to dance with me—why, it isn't my fault. I should think you'd be proud of having a sister that wasn't a wall flower."

"Well, I wasn't proud of the way you carried on—eight or nine men hanging around you all evening, and a dozen girls sitting out every dance. So I'm telling you right now that unless you promise you won't dance at all so long as there are other girls sitting it out—promise you'll make the men dance with the wall flowers—promise you'll show more concern for the shy young fellows that can't dance very well and don't know the other girls, I'll take you right home."

"Oh, all right," said the girl, and with an indignant little toss of the head she went into the light that shone from the club house. Her brother followed.

Bob and Nancy Crane were comparatively newcomers in the neighborhood. This was the first time that they had attended one of the country club dances. Nancy was both very pretty and unusually fascinating—moreover she danced divinely. But through dance after dance that night she sat at one end of the rooms.

If the rejected young man ventured to sit down beside her she would keep the conversation general, shunning him with the girl or girls beside her. Sometimes she would suggest to a young man whom she had refused that he had better dance with one of the other girls not dancing, and it was only when she had contrived to find partners for all the wall flowers that she felt free to dance herself.

A tall, slender young man in faultless tuxedo seemed to have taken root among the wall flowers. Mr. Hill—Fred Hill—was his name. He had been brave enough to dance twice with enormous Sally Jones. Sally was a nice girl and rather jolly, but Sally weighed two hundred pounds and was not easy to dance with. Then Fred Hill had worried through a dance with a girl who said she had never danced but once before. Later he contrived to sit and talk through a dance with a girl who stammered, but said she didn't want to dance as she found conversation so much more worth while.

Once when Nancy had somehow contrived to provide the last wall flower with a partner Fred Hill wandered over to her, and, hardly looking at her, said in a tone of forced cheerfulness: "May I have this dance—I haven't been presented but that doesn't matter at this club." Then he looked at Nancy and realized how very pretty she really was.

"Funny little girl," Fred said to her after they had danced for a few minutes. "Sitting all alone with the wall flowers when you're the prettiest girl in the room—and the best dancer I ever met."

When this dance was over Fred asked Nancy to go out on the veranda with him, and Nancy accepted. After all, she thought, he wasn't particularly popular. He had been dancing with the wall flowers—didn't seem to know any of the popular girls. Bob had told her to be good to the shy men. After that she insisted on going back to the place of the wall flowers and at her bidding Fred danced with the girl who weighed two hundred and later talked with the girl who stammered. After that she felt that they both deserved a respite and they rambled down a path toward the golf course.

"Funny little girl," Fred was saying as he kissed her hand. "I feel as if I had known you always. I'm not going to let you forget me. I'm going to come and see you tomorrow—and the next day and the next day and every day after that."

"I'll tell you something funny," continued Fred. "My sister Alice and I have belonged to this club forever. I've been coming to dances all summer and there are always a number of very popular girls of the sort the men are always swarming around. Well, I've always been one of the swarms. I never cared a rap for a girl who wasn't hotly pursued by at least a dozen other men. Well, my sister Alice told me that it was disgraceful—the way all the men hung round the few popular girls and a lot of really nice little girls had to sit out their dances. Alice made me promise tonight that I'd devote myself to the girl who didn't have so much attention. Well, I thought they were all hopeless. But Alice was right."

"Alice was very kind to make you dance with us," said Nancy simply. Fred was holding Nancy's little hand in his and he kissed it almost solemnly. "Blessed little wall flower," he said—"I love you."

The next day began an intensive sort of courtship and a week later Fred and Nancy were engaged.

"I told Fred the quiet little girls who weren't so very popular were really more worth while," Alice boasted. "And now he knows I was right."

TELEPHONES SUBJECT OF DISCUSSIONS

Citizens Company Will Sell Rather Than Fight For Rate Increase.

The meeting of the chamber of commerce held at the Boggs hotel Tuesday evening was well attended. Covers were laid for forty-three. Beside the attraction, a chicken dinner, which was nicely served by Mrs. Boggs, the greater attraction was, what the officials of the Citizens Telephone company had to tell the public.

The company reported that they had received several offers from foreign concerns to buy their holdings here and that these are under consideration.

Should the present company sell the stockholders could make a larger return than they are now receiving on their investment. The question the company presented was; would the citizens prefer to give this company a small increase in rates and then continue to operate this plant as a home institution, or would they prefer to have the plant sold to a foreign corporation and have the rates increased as much as the traffic would permit.

The company stated that they will gladly give any information desired, that the books are open for public inspection and that the present board of directors will not make a fight for an increase in the rates, if objections were filed with the public utilities commission. In that event they would much prefer to dispose of their holdings here and retire from the business, after twenty-five years of service and let the purchasers assume the burden of increasing the rates over objections filed.

President Thomas F. Jeffries presided and a number of interesting topics came up for discussion. The merchants will be asked to put out in the way of decoration for the holidays illuminated Christmas trees, as they did last year as it brings out the Christmas spirit and gives the business district a carnival atmosphere for the greatest holiday observance in the Christian calendar. Glenn Nickerson, Samuel Joseph and Lawrence Johnson were appointed as a committee to see the merchants on this matter.

The matter of indorsing the request of the Pickaway county Farm Bureau to the county commissioners for assistance in the matter of employing a county farm agent was brought up, and after very little discussion, it received the unanimous endorsement.

The next meeting will be held next Tuesday at the U. B. Community house, at which time the members will be addressed by General Superintendent Harry Weller, of the Norfolk & Western Railroad company.

The matter of securing bus lines making this city the hub for the county was referred to the executive committee for investigation.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union-Herald:—Mary Jane Seall, daughter of the late Amos and Catherine Earnhart Pontius, was born in Washington township May 24 1852, and departed this life November 26, 1926, at Columbus, Ohio, aged 74 years, six months and two days.

On January 21, 1874, she was united in marriage to George Seall, who died October 15, 1905. To this union were born two daughters and one son. The son was her one comfort and joy in her early widowhood.

The last years of her life were spent with her daughter, Mrs. Eva White at whose home she passed away very peacefully.

She united with the United Brethren church in early life, always keeping the faith and trust in God. Her daily prayer and Bible reading was the joy of her life. Her daily prayer was that the Lord would take her home and out of her suffering which no one can know.

She was always thoughtful of her loved ones looking after their welfare. She leaves to mourn their loss two daughters, one son, three brothers, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Card of Thanks.

We sincerely thank all our neighbors and friends for their many kindnesses and sympathy during the illness and after the death of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Seall.

The Children.

Does a poor memory develop a mania for borrowing or is it the other way around?

AMUSEMENTS

Just how foolish and funny, pathetic and pestiferous, the average American show-off actually appears in real life, will be revealed for the first time when Paramount's human and humorous comedy, "The Show-Off" begins its local engagement at the Met theater Wednesday.

In its original form this picture play was a popular stage success by George Kelly, but Malcolm St. Clair, the director, with the help of Pierre Coolings, the scenarist, has incorporated comedy sequences and bits of "business" that were out of the question in the spoken version because of the limitations of the stage.

"The Show-Off" gets its name from the central character in the story—a flashy and conceited individual, who drives everybody wild with his boasting and lying. To hear him talk, one gets the impression that he practically owns the Pennsylvania railroad, whereas in reality, he is nothing but a small salaried clerk.

His pompous bluffing stands him in good stead when it comes to love, for he succeeds in marrying a charming girl, despite the open opposition of her family, who recognize him for just what he is. As a husband, he is a poor provider, and as a son-in-law, a burden and a troublemaker. His bluster and lies almost get him into jail and nearly bankrupt the family, but by a last-minute financial coup, he saves the day and justifies himself and his egotism.

In the matter of cast, even the most captious critic will readily admit that Director St. Clair is a mighty fine picker. Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson, Louise Brooks and George Kelly carry the featured roles, which insures acting of a decidedly high order.

HARTMAN THEATER.

Mr. Fiske, unchallenged as America's most distinguished star of the stage, comes to the Hartman theater, Columbus, on next Thursday, December 2, for three days only, as Mrs. Alving in Ibsen's great human drama, "Ghosts." It is an interesting fact that, whereas Ibsen gave two whole years to the writing of this play, Mrs. Fiske has devoted almost five years to study of the drama and its central character before offering it to the public.

As always, Mrs. Fiske's supporting cast is of her own careful selection. As the son, Oswald Alving, the young New York Theodore St. John, who has won success playing in Paris and Berlin in the native languages, is cast. Walter Ringham plays Pastor Manders. Mr. Ringham is well known for his association with Sir Charles Wyndham, Sir Forbes-Robertson and others in his native England, and as leading man to Grace George and Ethel Barrymore and in numerous other Broadway productions. The vital part of Regina is played by Jarvis Kerr, a Vassar graduate of the class of 1925, who literally stepped from school to success on the professional stage of New York. Miss Kerr was chosen by Mrs. Fiske from more than fifty actresses considered for this part.

The version of "Ghosts" which Mrs. Fiske will present is Harrison Grey Fiske's revision of the English translation by William Archer. It is asserted that to those familiar with this great modern drama, it will come in the nature of a welcome and thrilling revelation, the faithful interpretation of Ibsen's intent and purpose in writing a human play of life in all its strength and frailty. The company brings its own complete production which is declared to be exceptionally handsome and strikingly impressive from the pictorial viewpoint.

Double Vision

Sir James Taggart tells this story about Lord Aberdeen. The latter was walking along a street in Edinburgh when a tipsy fellow bumped into him. A patrolman reproved the man, saying, "Do you know that you have run into the marquis of Aberdeen and Temair?" "Guld Lord, am I as drunk as a' that?" said the culprit. "Is there two o' them?"—Boston Transcript.

In recent years there has been considerable effort at reviving archery. COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS TREE ARRANGEMENTS

At a called meeting of the American Legion at the Post room in Memorial Hall last night arrangements were made for the Community Christmas tree which the local Post has sponsored for the past several years. Joseph M. Lynch is general chairman in charge of the affair and will arrange a suitable program and also secure a speaker for the evening. Lawrence Johnson will have charge of the purchasing for the tree and also for the gifts of candy and fruit. Mr. Johnson has had charge of this part of the program each year and past success speaks for his efficiency. Karl Herrmann will be in charge of solicitations which, this year, will not be very extensive as the Legion has quite a sum in their treasury for this fund. However, some is necessary and any one wishing to make a donation of money or fruit of any kind will please call Mr. Herrmann.

This is a very pretty custom and is thoroughly enjoyed by the many children of the community who would otherwise be without the satisfaction of a tree at this time of the year.

At the celebration last year one thousand sacks of candy and fruit were given away by the genial Santa Claus and it is planned to prepare more this year.

The Russian word "cheka" refers to the secret service of Soviet Russia. The name is formed from letters of the Russian words "chrezvychaynaya komissiya."

WOMAN PREVENTS ROBBERY OF BANK

Clanging of Bell Routs Holdup
Men Away From Building—
Escape Made in Auto.

Cincinnati, Nov. 29.—A woman's courage frustrated an attempt today by three men to rob the Farmers and Merchants' Bank at Williamsburg, 30 miles east of here. Her quick action in stepping on a burglar alarm behind the bank office counter sent the robbers scurrying away in an automobile that was headed toward Cincinnati.

John B. Cover, cashier, and Mrs. Ruth Thomas, assistant cashier, were alone in the bank when the automobile drew up in front of the bank. Two men got out; a third remained at the steering wheel.

"Stick 'em up and hand over the money," one of the men commanded.

Both robbers flourished revolvers.

Although one of the robbers was only a few feet from her, Mrs. Thomas stepped on the burglar alarm. The clanging of the bell routed the robbers and brought scores of persons running to the scene.

The robbers ran outside, jumped into their waiting automobile and sped away.

The End of the Sea

If the supply of heat from the sun becomes in the course of ages less and less, the earth will become cold like the moon, and colder. The sea will become as hard as rock, frozen from top to bottom. Unless, of course, something unforeseen happens.

First "Musical Saw"

The idea of extracting music from such an unlikely medium as an ordinary steel saw is said to have originated more than thirty years ago in Argentina. A drunken violinist in a lumber camp is credited with the discovery. In recent years the "musical saw" has become a popular fancy of jazz orchestras in both America and Europe.

Don't put off having those fall and winter garments cleaned; you may need them.

In 1925 Chevrolet astonished the automotive world by attaining an annual production never before reached by any manufacturer of gearshift automobiles.

Yet, so spectacular has been the increase in demand for Chevrolet cars, that a new and even more brilliant record is the climax for 1926.

Thus, for two years in succession, Chevrolet has broken all its previous records and has set a new mark in automotive history.

This splendid achievement results from a steadfast adherence to the fundamental Chevrolet policy of building a car of the finest possible quality to sell at a low price.

That the vast majority of buyers now demand a car of this type—and that Chevrolet is building such a car—possessing the highest degree of smooth performance, smart appearance, and economical operation—is proved by Chevrolet's success. Come in and see this record-breaking Car.

MEMBERS OF BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUBS VISIT CAPITOL

Many Interesting Sights Were Seen In This City and the Museum—Moving Picture Show By Dean Vivian—Account of Trip Told In An Entertaining Way By Miss Laura Tener, of the Deercreek Clothing Club.

Miss Dorothy Anderson from the Pickaway Township Food club, Henry Kaiser, from the Walnut Township Corn club; Misses Irene Baird and Laura Tener from the Deercreek Township Clothing club were the delegates or club winners of Pickaway county to the Club Week at the Ohio State university.

We left Circleville on November 15,
at 9:40 a. m., on the traction car.
Miss Ethel Brobst from the Farm Bureau office went along with us as chaperone. We arrived at the Southern hotel at 11 a. m. The girls were taken to their rooms and the boys were taken to the Columbus hotel.
This was a great experience because there were only 67 out of the delegates out of Ohio that ever had stayed at a hotel.

In the afternoon all the boys and girls went to the university on street cars and had our first meeting at the University hall. We were welcomed gladly by Dean Alfred Vivian of the college of agriculture. He called us his four hundred grandchildren, representatives of his 28,000 grandchildren. He told us that we ought to be glad that we live in the United States, that we have a good opportunity to make the best better and that this is the only country in the world there they have the Girls' and Boys' clubs.
We were organized into companies and each company was divided into groups averaging about twenty in each group and each group had a chaperone during the week.

Part of us went to the North Minster, Presbyterian church and the others went to the King avenue M. E. church for our meals. They were prepared by the ladies of those communities and the nutrition department planned the menus.

Each morning we had chapel at the University hall. On Tuesday morning the pastor told us in a little story form to say our prayers before going to bed wherever we would be. We sang club songs and our American favorite songs and gave club yells with a vigor at many of our meetings.
Mrs. C. E. Lively talked about "Courtesy" on Wednesday morning. She said: "You do not have a perfect fitting garment without good conduct."
Miss Gladys Coon from the National Dairy council, Chicago, Illinois, gave several interesting talks and play-lets on how to keep the body in good health and how to build it up stronger. She gave us the many health rules and said that each club and school should have a health chairman.
The club members should follow the health rules and weigh themselves and check upon themselves. If you follow the health rules you will not have to use drugs and medicines to make your self beautiful and healthful.

The Willing Workers' club of Licking county, gave a play showing their way of conducting a meeting. They discussed two topics which they wanted the clubs of Ohio to follow; commit to memory the "Star Spangled Banner" and have the flag of the United States at every club meeting.
They gave a play "Posture" in which they told us that it wasn't the load that breaks us down it's the way we carry it. Each day we had an hour or more for music appreciation. We worked on a music memory contest.
Miss Fannie Buchanan of the Victor Talking Machine company, was the instructor. One purpose in this was to learn to appreciate good music and to be able to recognize those pieces
when we would hear them in the future. A song or a musical piece is not music until it is played or sung and then heard by listeners therefore, everybody can enjoy music by playing a phonograph or listening over a radio, so we should be acquainted with it. The contest was held Friday night and a few over fifty scored one hundred.

"Yard" Dead Honored

In one of the corridors of Scotland Yard burns a light which never has been put out, and the intention is that it never shall be. It burns in memory of those men of the "Yard" who were killed in the World war, and has an inscription to that effect.

Does the constitution of the United States make it impossible for a woman to become president? Yes, by setting up an age requirement of thirty-five years.

Grandpa Vivian showed us moving pictures of the boys and girls of other lands and explained their modes of living. After we saw how some children had to live I am sure we were glad that we lived on Ohio's good farms. He also showed us pictures of America. They were pictures of the Yellow Stone National park, Niagara Falls, Grand Canyon and other places of great interest. This gave us a broader idea of our country and we all enjoyed them very much. They showed the pictures "A Kiss for Cinderella" on Wednesday night.

During the week we played games that were very easy to plan and inexpensive which they wanted us to tell our club mates at home about them so we could have an hour of enjoyment at each club meeting in recreation. On Wednesday afternoon we met the 20-Master farmers of Ohio who had been awarded medals on their standing in agricultural practices, business ability community and religious life and citizenship. Mr. John Stevenson in Jackson township, Pickaway county, was one of them who was the king potato grower.

United States Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas, gave a very interesting talk about the girls and boys' clubs of Kansas and Ohio and about many prosperous things that the Ohio farmers are doing.

On Tuesday the home economics department gave a play, "My Room" of six girls. They rearranged a dis-ordered bedroom into a very neat and comfortable room. It taught us that every girl can have a nice bedroom without much expense. Have the furniture parallel with the walls, do not have too many pictures on the walls, keep clothes put away and have all the furnishings of the room in corresponding colors. These are some of the many things which club work teaches girls to do.

On Thursday afternoon Professor
A. C. Hottes gave a talk on "Plant Hunters." You should preserve the trees and flowers. A plant does not mean much without its name. To enjoy plants hunt them and find all the interesting things about them that you can. We visited the Ohio State university stadium, library, greenhouse which had many different kinds of flowers, ferns and vines in it. The broadcasting station WEAO and the museum. Some of the many things in the museum were; an Egyptian mummy, an iron German mantrap, woman's glass woven dress, first automobile in Columbus, war and Indian relics, stuffed birds, their nests, and eggs and many other things too numerous to mention.

On Friday we visited the Capitol building, Ten Cent store and we went thru the large Lazarus department store. The club leaders of this annual club week entertained us with other good things and we appreciated and enjoyed all of it. It was educational because it gave us things to help us in leadership in clubs at home gave us a broader idea of the extensive work of the clubs and we saw the beautiful Ohio State university buildings and its campus. All the club boys and girls showed great club spirit and patriotism and we all had a very good time.

I encourage all the boys and girls who are old enough to join the 4-H clubs. Altho every boy and girl can not be winners they may try and make an attempt and do their best toward winning a trip to the Ohio
State university.

I appreciate and thank the leaders,
my club mates and my community
for their work which they have done in any way that helped me to make my club work a success in winning my trip and a week's enjoyment at the Ohio State university.

LAURA TENER,
Williamsport, Ohio

Food Value of Sugar

It has been shown by experiments
that, as a part of a simple mixed diet, five ounces of sugar a day can be consumed by a healthy adult and 98.9 per cent of its total energy becomes available in the body. The main function of the sugar is to furnish heat
